Bucyrus High School

"Our Boys and Girls First"

Foreword

After graduation some of us will go to college, some will enter the business or professional world; others will enter the shop or go on the farm, so the Class of '23 will be scattered in many parts of the land. Regardless of our occupations or positions in life, all of us, at times, will recall old friendships or incidents in our high school careers which brought joy, sorrow, pride, or regret into our lives.

It is for the purpose of making these recollections more vivid in the minds of our classmates that we, the staff, publish this annual. We feel that a great honor and responsibility has been bestowed on us, in return for which we have tried to present an accurate picture of school life and activities in Bucyrus High School. Though this may be found lacking in some respects, though some may feel that they have not received the recognition due them, we hope that we may not be judged too harshly, and that time may efface any seeming infidelity to the trust placed in us.

The Student Council

This body was organized in 1919 with the purpose of the students participating in the government of the school. It consists of ten members, of which two are Sophomores, three are Juniors, four are Seniors and a faculty advisor. Each year the Sophomore class elects two members and the Juniors and Seniors each elect one new member, thus making this organization a continuous body. Some of the things done were to arrange assembly programs, settle disputes arising, arrange for dances after all the basketball games and elect the members each year to the National Honor Society.

The members of the Student Council for 1922-1923 are: Miss Coffin, Faculty Advisor; Charles Klein, President; John Sears, Vice-President; Catherine O'Donnell, Secretary; Luella Stetzer, Harlan Stuckman, Frederick Greenwich, Elizabeth McDonald, Dorothy Schieber and James Conklin.

Senior Class History

Graduation time has come at last and with it come the memories of the many good times we've had in B. H. S. But let me take you back—back to one day in September in the year nineteen hundred and eleven. Twelve long years, but not so long that we cannot remember that first memorable morning when our school careers began. Year by year we struggled on, striving to reach that unknown land, "High School," which we entered in the year nineteen hundred and nineteen.

The upper classman, you may be sure, gave us a hearty welcome, but one hundred and fifty boys and girls bravely withstood the storm. The first week was filled with much excitement, hunting class rooms and getting acquainted with things in general. Ours was the first Freshman class that was permitted to organize, and on October 30 a meeting was called for this purpose. We chose as class officials, Walter Pierce, President; Esther Beiber, Vice-President; Mary Secrist, Secretary, and William Wagner, Treasurer; Catherine O'Donnell was chosen to represent our class in the Student Council.

Shortly after, a class party was held which proved to be such a big success that on February 14 we held a Valentine party. The evening's entertainment consisted of two plays, "The Leap Year Proposal," and "The Old Maid's Convention." After the plays, music was furnished by our class orchestra for those who wished to dance.

Better English week was observed in B. H. S. the week beginning November 10. During chapel, tags were distributed and then the rivalry began. At the end of the week it was announced that the Seniors had won but the final count decided in favor of the "Freshies," and our pennant of purple and gold was raised on the flag pole.

The next fall we returned to B. H. S., but not as little "Freshies" for we now bore the title of Sophomores. There had been a number of changes in the teaching staff and Mr. Simpson had taken the place of Mr. Garvin as principal. About the third month of school Miss Edna Tagert, teacher of Plane Geometry gave up her position here for a better one at Shaw High School, in Cleveland, Ohio. We were sorry to lose her but were glad of her good fortune in securing so good a position.

At the beginning of the second month of school we again organized and the following were elected: Donald Gaa, President; Evelyn Sherer, Vice-President; Harriet Shields, Secretary; Edward Pfleiderer, Treasurer; Luella Stetzer was chosen to serve with Catherine O'Donnell on the Student Council. At this meeting we also changed our class colors to black and white.

In our Junior year we were well represented in school life. On the football team were three of our men and in the B. B. tournament we won third place. We had three of our number on the debating team. The class officers for our Junior year were: Harold Metcalf, President; Marjorie Jones, Vice-President; Harriet Shields, Secretary; Edward Pfeiderer, Treasurer; Charles Klein was elected as the third member on the Student Council. We had several parties during our Junior year and now we, bearing the dignified name of "Seniors," pass on to the last year of High School.

This is our second year in the new building and heading our organization, one hundred and twenty-four strong, are: Charles Klein, President; Marjorie Jones, Vice-President, Lucille Volk, Secretary, and Robert McMichael, Treasurer. Our other representative on the Student Council is John Sears.

Our High School career is rapidly drawing to a close and soon we will pass on and leave our place for those who are ready to fill it. We have enjoyed our school days and thoughts of them will remain with us throughout the coming years. The High School days for the Class of '23 are over and now we bid you adieu.

—Elnora Walker.

Last Will and Testament of the Senior Class of 1923

WE, THE MEMBERS OF THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1923 OF THE BUCYRUS HIGH SCHOOL, although having been assailed by teachers and instructors for the past twelve (12) years, still believe and therefore we affirm and allege that we are possessed of a sound and disposing mind and memory. Knowing that we are in the aforesaid condition of mind and memory and finding it necessary to break up and destroy the scholarly relationships heretofore existing, we do declare this as and for our last will and testament, hereby revoking and declaring null and void any and all former wills and testaments by us heretofore made.

ITEM 1. For Mr. Baer we would leave a set of records for reducing as we have found that dumbbells have no effect on him.

ITEM 2. To Miss Mills we give a volume concerning vitamins and how to use them. We all wish her better luck with next year's Christmas Tree.

ITEM 3. For Mr. Dowell we leave the volume, "How to Tame a Crow," by U. B. Myne, and another concerning the handling of the line outside the laundry by Miss Gyvin.

ITEM 4. To Miss McBane we bequeath one box of beechnut gum (retains its flavor on the bedpost) so that she will not beg any more from the Senior boys.

ITEM 5. To Mr. Jackson, the proud possessor of a slippery tongue and a debate-smelling nose, we leave the question: Resolved, That the last hair on a cat's tail is a cat hair.

ITEM 6. To Miss Julian, that famous manipulator of high class, modern slang, we leave the book, "Letting George Do It," and various beauty receipts (which will help).

ITEM 7. For Mr. Ellis we leave a rolling pin proof helmet and a set of automatic eye protectors.

ITEM 8. For Miss Conklin we leave the remainder of our "Dough" and recommendations as "Chief of the Gravy Department."

ITEM 9. To Mr. Sharer we give our last sample of "Kill or Kure" to keep for next year's football team, this liquid powder is soothing to heads, stomachs and excellent for matburns and broken bones.

ITEM 10. For Mr. Todd we leave instructions for pounding bits of knowledge into blocks.

ITEM 11. For Miss Coffin we leave an automatic dismissal blank writer and the chance to make Viola Danas out of a few of our girls.

ITEM 12. To Miss Strickland, that "Master Pealer," we leave a song entitled, "Cling to Me," by B. A. Magnette.

ITEM 13. For Mr. Patterson we leave a set of boxing gloves and a horse-shoe for good luck. We hope that in his next con-flab he will not need exterior assistance; and for Mr. Simpson, his right hand bower, we leave a pair of hand cuffs that he may more easily assist his colleague.

ITEM 14. To all the teachers we extend our most heartfelt thanks for the knowledge which they have implanted in our knowledge-craving (?) beings.

ITEM 15. To the Junior Class we leave the aluminum "tin cup" for their successful efforts in the class games.

In Testimony Hereof, We have hereunto set our hand this 5th day of May, in the year 1923.

CHARLES KLEIN.

Signed and acknowledged by said Senior Class of 1923, as its last will and testament, in our presence; and signed by us in its presence.

CLARK TEMPLE.

HAZEL PFLEIDERER.

Senior Prophecy

Seren I fold my hands and wait
Nor care for wind or tide or sea;
But what is portrayed to me by Fate
Now is written and you shall see.

In Paris, Virginia Wise we find,
The most noted composer of the time;
No doubt she has the same little giggle as ever

Nevertheless we think her quite clever.
Our old Dick, now known as Honorable Mr.
Wentz

Has gone to Europe to earn a sixpence;
So I am told for research work,
This one who never does shirk.
Geneva McHenry is a well-known writer,
And also a long distance traveler;
Quite recently a volume has she written
Now read by men and women as well as children.

Leonard Boke in his way so wise
Has done great things not to our surprise;
For he has taken Coach Sharer's place
And in B. H. S. has he won a high place.
Isabel McFarland is of worldly fame
It is only her voice that has won her name;
In Europe, Asia or even the isle of the sea
This great opera singer may you see.
On all her tours her able accompanist
Who together with her charm and wit
Is Anna Neiderheiser that talented pianist Affording herself a name in the world of music.

Another musician of national renown,
After having donned his cap and gown
Is Kenneth Christman, who down through the years

By means of his violin has banished cares and fears.

Donna Gray our graceful little dancer
More than that, quite a notable singer
Travels from North to South and East to West

Entertaining high society at her very best.

The teacher of the "Little Red Schoolhouse"

Living alone in a nearby farm house
Is Earl Grau so congenial yet strict
Who often deems it necessary to use a stick.

Margaretta Hollenbaugh is a famous cartoonist

Many things do we see by this artist,
For she is now in the newspaper world
As leading cartoonist for the "Chicago World."

Clark Temple in Galion has found an occupation

However, there must have been more temptation.

Alas! he has there found a little wife,
Together they are living a most happy life.
Phyllis Myers now lives in Paris

In society life is she quite prominent
From time to time she meets some of her class

Associating with those who are eminent.
Another one prominent in political life
Is Millard Foucht, who with his wife
Aids in settling problems of the day
For we know Millard always has "his"
way.

So shy and demure is our old pal Grace,
Who with the affairs of the world keeps pace;

However, Miss Lust has a home of her own

And perfectly content does she live alone.
In high society is John Sears

He, by his efforts after several years,
Is Editor of the "Los Angeles Review"
And relates all the news of the movies
stars, too.

Mildred Berry has gone to be a nurse
So she says "for better or for worse."
She attends her patients with the greatest skill

As a result of her learning when a real young girl.

In the country away from strife and care
Has Harry McCurdy made his lair.

Raising his carloads of chickens and pigs
And happy enough to dance a jig.

In vaudeville now plays Kathryn Gerish
So we've heard she is very rich,

A little vamp is she so fair
With her winning eyes and golden hair.

Emerson Smith has turned toward insurance

That people will die, does he give assurance.

Thus in his business-like way does he work

Insuring all—be it American or Turk.
Two who work in his insurance office

19 The Bucyrrian 23

Senior Prophecy, Continued

And because of their skill, progress business
As capable stenographers, with never a fear

Are Callie Jacobs and Kathryn Greer.
Lois Grau and Cecil McCurdy
Have joined in the bonds of matrimony
Now dear Lois is perfectly content
For a small farm near to town they rent.
Mary Secrist our charming maid
Has adopted neither profession nor trade,
But she is making a tour of the world
And recently to France has she been hurled.

Our anti-school advocate for many years
Who of that institution hath no fears
Has been Donald Bolyer, tho to our surprise

As an architect, he makes the sky-scrapers rise.

The clever little novelty shop across the way

To which those of high society come each day.

Is run by Gladys Savage and Cordelia Gaa
And their charming helpers, Lucille Klopfenstein and Dorothea Gaa.

Leo Oberlander has won a great name
In playing the so-called Baseball game;
And one on his famous team

Is Paul Robertson, so swift and keen.

Alpha Swartz and Mildred Nickum are teaching school.

Never can either of them a pupil fool
They make a good pair—Miss Swartz the historian

And Miss Nickum as the mathematician.
That terribly strict principal of our Normal school

Is Helen Lowmiller, who uses never a tool.

And two teachers in this institution

Are Lois Schieber and Bertha McKibben.

Milton Limenstoll is a policeman;

Like all others, he makes fear him all men.

He is just as conscientious as ever

And at his duty is he always regular.

In London we find Florence Magee;

She is just what she long desired to be.

For lo! she is a seamstress indeed,

Better than any of whom we read.

Our well-known jazz orchestra

Regarded as the best in America

Includes three of our old funmakers

Donald Gaa, Robert Ebert and Robert Shumaker.

Our old friends Edan Durigg and Carrie Sell

Stories to children as well as elders do tell.
For they are doing Americanization work
In a slum district of New York.

Another boxer who often competes
With Mr. Leuthold, in several meets
Is Stephen Harter, the heavyweight
Who to his bouts is never late.

Arlene Rice has gone far from home
Indeed she has purchased a new one.

For in South America does she live

And as a Social Reformer does she freely her services give.

A noted cartoonist is Robert McCarron

Connected with a paper in London.

He draws the cartoons with such an ease

That from over the world does he have pleas.

In boxing has won many a play

A nurse of this great class

Who makes things fly as the days go past,

Is Catherine Fox so exact and neat

Making it impossible for others her to beat.

Willis Richards and Ralph Scheiber

Are diligent bookkeepers in a village called Meek.

They never complain though their salary is meaker

Being only three dollars a week.

Another promoter of the prosperous place

Is Goldie Mutchler, clerk in a book store.

With her competitors she runs a race

As in school days of yore.

Robert Noyer is a traveling salesman.

Many does he meet of his former classmen.

He goes from East to West and even South

Earning hundreds of pennies a month.

Charlotte Monnette now runs a Tea
Shoppe,

Employed in her service are Rowena
Shupp

And that other fair little lass

Only our Muriel Class.

Paul Upham and John Walker are the owners

Of a large chain of grocery stores.

The service given their customers

Is that which none can beat.

Next comes Irene Ulmer the typing expert

19 The Bucyrion 23

Senior Prophecy, Continued

No wonder, for so much time does she exert
She tickles the keys from morn 'til night
And invariably does she have things right.
The heavyweight champion of our day
Is Emerson Leuthold, with no fear
Even out-classing Georges Carpentier.
Edna Monnette after months of work
Runs a dancing school in New York.
We are sure of her now being satisfied
For that has been the desire of her life.
Harold Stebbins is our Opera House manager.
With some of his old friends in his employ
Norman Heiby is his trustworthy janitor
And the fruits of his labor his patrons enjoy.
The Matron of our Children's Home
Who never there is alone
Is Mabel Pfeifer, and the trained nurse
 there
Is May Ghist, whom never do the kiddies fear.
In many ways do people become rich
At least that is what one has said;
For the owner of a grocery is Harold Love-rich
In this world his name has he raised.
While just across the way
Is one who says it does pay
James Ahl, the department store manager
With Warren Shawk, his assistant worker.
Esther Bieber has adopted a great profession
And many people do to her make confession
For she is the leading lawyer in the town.
And her husband a Doctor of some renown
Who of course, followed his father's trade
Is Clarence Schoolfield, our former athlete
Together they share the joys of married life complete.
Violet Bonin and Mary Hartman
In their work can beat the men.
For they are stenographers in a large office
And what they do must surely, suffice.
Eleanor McIlvaine now plays in Comic Opera.
And in all the plays she is the leading character;

With her play Charles Klein, the comedian
And Edmund Ackerman, the great magician.
That exceptionally intellectual one, Edward Pfeiderer
Has indeed become a great writer.
The field he has chosen to survey
Concerns Phycholophy at the present day.
A prosperous florist is Harold Taylor
He has introduced many a new flower
And his competent truck driver
Is none other than Alton Haller.
Odessa O'Brien and Mary Funk
Are just about to pack their trunk;
For as missionaries they are going
Even across the deep seas sailing.
Wayne Myers is a seller of shoes;
One who enters his store may hear all the news.
And two of his clerks are Jeanette Fligor
And her ever-present pal, Hazel Pfleiderer.
Professors in one of our colleges
Are Margaret Hartle and Norma Lerch, with much acquired knowledge,
Miss Hartle is a teacher of mathematics
And Miss Lerch specializes in the study of chemics.
Some of the members of our President's cabinet
(The best the country has ever met)
Are Robert McMichael and Carl Baker,
The latter being the Secretary of the Interior.
Catherine O'Donnell is now perfectly happy,
For she lives in old Killarney.
Together with her pal Dorothea Bowman
They run a boarding house for young men.
Harold Metcalf to our great surprise
Has just graduated from a theological seminary.
Now his task, so he says, is to save people's lives
For he is pastor of a small church in Kentucky.
Virginia Rice and Velma Gwinner
Have learned the science of getting a dinner.
They are cooks in a large hotel
And the efforts of their labor, the results do tell.

19 The Bucyrarian 23

Senior Prophecy, Continued

The Probate Judge of our town,
Who also in others has won some renown,
Is Jacob Sheetz, that one so bright
Always putting problems in the light.
Helen Lea is prominent in reform work
And from her duty does she never shirk,
Her most recent proposal is concerning
What she thinks the proper way of dancing.

Martha Rilling and Eleanor White
Now live together, but never fight
For Martha is an elocutionist
And Eleanor is a dramatist.
Of a dancing pavillion is William Wagner manager

And whether it be friend or stranger
Bill treats all in such a way
That they come to him from day to day.
Luella Stetzer is quite a novelist
In her writing she is really an artist.
The hero and heroine of her latest story
Which is read throughout the country
Are Corliss Myers and Marjorie Jones
Exciting enough to make rattle—your bones.

Margaret Powers is teaching physical culture

No longer do her pupils call it torture.
In contests given in both spring and fall
Never do the "Powers' School" girls fail.

One of our members has let Cupid her heart take

She thought "better now than too late"
For classmate Bertha Zimmerman
Has gone to live with an honorable man.
In a beauty parlor so precise and neat
Miss Marguerite Coutts do we meet.
And one who attends you there
Is Muriel Crall so lovely and fair.

Paul Unger of football fame
Is not, as expected, in the ice game,
But he is a civil engineer
Winning a great name and career.
Elnora Walker has recently been traveling
With her young husband going;
They have traveled far over land and sea
The sights of this great world to see.
Lucille Volk in her fair way
Is "the" French Prof. of her day.
While Franklin Weiler like a shadow Follows her whether to work or play she go.

Cupid's dart has pierced another
This time it is Helen Ricksecker.
And with her servants to run her errands
She is as happy as of old—the Barons.
Far away to the land of Spain
Bernadine Beran has gone
Her highest ambition is now fulfilled
And her heart with joy is filled.

Junior-Senior Reception

The reception held for the Class of '23, on May 18th, ends undoubtedly one of the best farewells ever given to a graduating class.

The Junior Class omitted no details and co-operated willingly with the following committee: Bertha Schaber, Mabel Klein, Doris Bertram, Nina Lust, Carl Roberts, Warren Leuthold, Charles Allen and John Schuler, under the capable leadership of Mr. Wood, in arranging the program that made the reception a success.

A delicious three-course dinner was served in the artistically decorated gymnasium, the Senior Class colors and the red rose cleverly carrying out the color scheme.

Robert Ackerman, Jack-in-the-Pulpit, acting as toastmaster of the evening, cleverly introduced the respective speakers.

Carl Roberts, representing the class flower, the poppy, voiced a welcome that was warmly echoed by his classmates. The response "The Red Rose," was given by the Senior president, Charles Klein. The next toast, entitled "Spring Beauty," was ably given by Frances Zincke, giving the Seniors an inspiration and ideals toward which to strive. Marjorie Jones responded with "Forget-me-Not" and did full justice to the topic. Following the dinner a short operetta was given by the Juniors.

The program dance was the closing feature of the delightful evening. Black and white balloons were given as favors. The Yonker's Orchestra of Mansfield furnished music during the entire evening.

Senior Class Day

On Friday, May 4th, 1923, the Seniors observed Class Day and everyone came to school dressed in unique costumes. In the afternoon the Seniors took charge of chapel. The first number on the program was a selection by the Senior Girls' Orchestra. Following the encore, Elnora Walker read the Class History. The Senior boys then gave a few musical numbers directed by Charles Klein. Evelyn Sherer gave a comical monologue. An old-fashioned spelling bee then took its place on the program. A foolish play featuring Charles Klein and Harold Stebbins caused much mirth and uproarious laughter. Wayne Myers gave a humorous recitation. The Senior Boys' Orchestra ended the program with a few musical numbers. By co-operating with the Student Council arrangements were made whereby the Senior Class flag was flown below the American flag during the day.

In the evening the Seniors held a gratis dance which was attended by many of the upper classmen. The gymnasium floor was beautifully decorated with the Senior colors. The Sultans of Syncopation furnished the music.

Senior News

A new school publication made its appearance at Bucyrus High School this year in the form of The Senior News. Although The News started on a small scale it grew until the Christmas number contained thirty-two pages of class news and humor. This was the last issue published as it was thought that the success of the Annual necessitated its discontinuance.

The Senior News not only contained news of the Class of '23, but much of the sunny side of school life. It is noteworthy that the staff with the co-operation of the class published the News. The staff was as follows: Editor, Millard J. Foucht; News Editor, Carl Baker; Business Manager, Edward Pfeiderer; Advertising Manager, Donald Boyer.

Junior Class History

In September, 1920, welcomed with the usual awe inspiring greetings of the upper class-men, the Class of 1924 entered Bucyrus High School. During our Freshman year we were well represented in athletics: in football by having representatives on the squad, in basketball by winning third place in the inter-class games. We showed the upper class-men what we were made of by winning the championship in baseball. With such a start in High School we had the crowning event of our "green" days; a Freshman Party. Thus ended our first year in Bucyrus High School.

After a splendid vacation we again wended our way back to Bucyrus High School. This year we had a new building. Our new environment seemed to help us in both studies and athletics. In football we had a fine showing from which several made positions on the Varsity basketball and baseball. In the inter-class basketball tournament we won a beautiful loving cup. After the annual party our second year drew to a close.

The next fall we entered our duties as Juniors. This year, as usual, we were represented in athletics, having men on the basketball and football squads. We again won the loving cup in the inter-class basketball tournament. We had our class party in the form of a penny social. The crowning success of the year was the Junior-Senior Reception. At the close of our third year we regretted the loss of the much-coveted name—Juniors.

Sophomore Class History

Of course it was just our luck to have the custom changed when we were all ready to be clapped into chapel on the first day of our Freshman career, for instead of calling us Freshmen of the High School, we were deemed the "ninth grade" of the Junior High.

But our name was no hindrance to us and we organized as other classes did. The officers elected were: President, James Conklin; Vice-President, Garold Gaa; Secretary, Donald Auck; Treasurer, Robert Brinkman.

Our social activities have always been a great success and besides many private parties a class party was given, which topped off the social season. The gym floor and the cafeteria were beautifully decorated with our class colors, scarlet and gray. The evening was spent in games and dancing, after which we had a delicious luncheon served by some of the girls. Much credit is due to Mr. Wood, our faculty advisor, for the good time everyone had.

In athletics, "Ike" Nussbaum represented our class both on the football field and the basketball floor. We also had a class basketball team, and although it never gained the name of "Champs," it gave the other teams of the tournament an exciting race for the title.

On September 5, 1922, we returned to

B. H. S. as the Sophomore class and got our first taste of high school life. At night many of the Sophomore boys donned their oldest clothes and with buckets of paint, oil, lamp-black and anything that could be smeared started on the mission of initiating the ninth graders, but, alas there were more Freshmen than Sophomores and the results were not as they should have been. The next day many faces were seen that plainly showed the futility of the soap and scrub-brush. Early in the year we reorganized, electing Edwin Norton, President; Franklin Roberts, Treasurer; and Miss Moore, faculty advisor. The class colors remained the scarlet and gray.

The class is taking part in most of the school activities, the greatest being the Student Council, in which James Conklin and Dorothy Schieber represent the Sophomores.

Our athletic ability has greatly increased in the last year for four Sophomores were on the Varsity football team and three on the basketball squad. In the class tournament we got second place, defeating all the other teams except the Juniors who were the "Champs."

At the present time arrangements are being made for a big class party which will break the record set by the party of last year.

ATHLETICS

Summary

Before going on to the activities of Bucyrus High School in the sports individually, it is well for us to summarize just what has been done this year in athletics as a whole—what the school has tried to accomplish, its policy for the accomplishment, and what has actually been accomplished.

The years 1922-23 have been years in which more students have taken part in athletics than ever before, sports new to the school have been introduced and Junior High pupils have had better opportunities to develop into the athletes of B. H. S. in coming years.

For the first time in the history of the school, the football second team has had games with teams of other schools. The girls' basketball team and the boys' basketball second team again had their schedules and the inter-class basketball league was continued. The bowling team, introduced last year, was again a member of the Minor Bowling League of the city. An indoor track meet was held to determine the best all-around athlete in B. H. S. and to set up records for track men to break, or try to, in coming years. An inter-class outdoor track meet was held, and was followed by an interscholastic track season. So, after a year without a meet, track was again a sport. Varsity baseball was discontinued, but in its stead, the first inter-class baseball league of Bucyrus High was formed. So not only the best athletes of the school, but everyone who wished to participate in sports, has had this opportunity in the year just finished.

Captain "Fitch" Unger has for three years been a mainstay on the varsity where he proved to be one of the best tackles B. H. S. has ever had. The opposition learned early in the game that trying to send a play around "Fitch" was useless. By his all-round playing and his football ability he was chosen as a tackle on the mythical North Central League football team. "Fitch's" graduation will leave a hole on the team which will be hard to fill.

"Ed" Pfliederer, for two years a member of the varsity, showed himself to be a valuable man to have around. Although "Ed" did not play regularly he was ready at a moment's notice to play any position in the back-field. We are sorry that "Ed" will not be back next year, but are sure that everyone will remember him when the squad lines up.

"Cuke" Schoolfield made his football debut this season and soon showed that he was capable of being "Fitch's" running mate. "Cuke" is a good tackler and always loomed as a menace to the opposing back-field. Schoolfield will be missed from the team next fall as he is a clean sportsman and a fine athlete.

"Porky" Baker played his first and last games for B. H. S. this season. Carl was the biggest man on the squad and he used his weight to a good advantage in removing his opponent. Baker is a good guard, one who is in the game every minute, and a bearcat for work. Baker will be gone, but not forgotten, from the team next season.

"Red" Stuckman, captain-elect, had the misfortune of breaking a leg in the Galion game last year, but he came back after the start of this season and soon made his presence felt. "Red" was in every play and did everything in his power to aid or break it up. We are sure Stuckman will be a still better player next season and captain a championship team.

Harold "Pup" Smith is a triple threat man if there ever was one. As Smith can hit the line, throw a pass, or run the ends with the best of players; he was chosen as a half on the mythical North Central League football team. "Pup" will be back next year so the B. H. S. fans have many thrills awaiting them.

"Ike" Nussbaum, our diminutive quarterback, proved himself to be the best in the league and won a place on the North Central League team with Smith and Unger. "Ike" can do everything a quarterback is expected to do and he was on the receiving end of many of the famous Nussbaum, Harris and Smith forward passes. Nussbaum will be back for two more years.

his weight to a good advantage in removing

Football

"Har" Harris did the punting this year and showed the other teams how it was done. "Har" is an accurate passer and did much of the team's passing. Harris will be with us another year.

Alton "Tarzan" Smith rounded out the backfield. His off tackle bucks along with receiving forward passes gained B. H. S. many points. Smith has another year and with a year of experience he should develop into B. H. S.'s greatest fullback.

"Kid" Ghist played the center position nobly this season. He always got the ball where it was wanted which accounted for the backfield having so few fumbles. Ghist will be back to play center for us next fall.

"Swede" Swanson made his first appearance this year on the squad. He played an end position very capably, breaking up the opponents' plays with ease and skill. Swanson is a fast, shifty and scrappy player and B. H. S. fans are glad that he still has another year to play.

"Eddie" Norton, one of the fastest men on the squad, is a Sophomore. The opposing backfield had to be fast or "Eddie" would break up the play before it reached the line of scrimmage. Norton is a star already so watch him make things lively for the other teams in the league next year.

"Fat" Kennedy is a good all around, hard-working tackle who can be depended on to help in every play. Kennedy will be back next fall and we expect him to be of great help in bringing a championship to Bucyrus next fall.

"Toby" Roberts is a handy man to have around. He is Ghist's understudy and proved himself capable of playing the center or an end position at any time.. Roberts has two more seasons to play so he should be one of the best centers in the league by that time.

"Jesse" James, one of the hardest hitting and best defensive guards that ever played for B. H. S. has two more years to play for us. "Jesse" never was drawn out of position and few plays ever went around him. James has a great football career ahead of him and we are sure he will make the best of it.

"Bob" Brinkman was handicapped the first part of the season by injuries. "Bob" is a good guard, a hard worker and with this season's experience he should be better next fall. We are glad that Brinkman still has two more years to play.

"Elt" Norris is the only Freshman on the squad. Elt is a clever, shifty back; one quick to learn and the type of player a coach likes to have around. Norris will be back to complete a veteran backfield, the best to represent B. H. S. for many years.

Football Summary

When Coach Sharer issued a call for football candidates, about forty would-be players responded and were immediately put to practice. Of the forty men who reported, only six were letter men. With the exception of left tackle, center and right end an entire new line had to be formed. The quarterback and left half-back positions were capably filled but a fullback and right half were needed. Of the host of players some began to show up better than the others and they were groomed for the positions open on the team so that when the season opened three weeks later, Coach Sharer had a team that worked like a new clock, which does not run well at first but the more it is run the better it gets, so the first few games the team played they did not go well, due to the lack of experience, but after the Mansfield game they were capable of meeting the best. Although Mansfield had won from us they met their Waterloo at Ashland, where they were beaten 19 to 0, which resulted in making Bucyrus, Ashland and Mansfield tie for the North Central League Championship. The team was fighting every minute; every man was in every play and if Mansfield would have played B. H. S. later in the season the story would have been different.

Basketball

Harold "Pup" Smith, captain and captain-elect, proved himself to be a very capable field general. By his dribbling and pivoting, his passing and shooting, "Pup" showed the fans in the league that he is one of the best forwards in High School basketball. We wish that Smith and his team mates will have better success next season and all indications show that they will.

Clarence "Cuke" Schoolfield played the center position during the tip-off then he dropped back to the stationary guard position. This was "Cuke's" first year but he developed fast and soon became a fine guard. Schoolfield has made a hit with the fans and they are sorry he will not be back next fall.

Howard "Ike" Nussbaum is as good at basketball as he is in football, where he is a star. "Ike" and "Pup" were the only veterans on the team, and working with a green team their real values did not stand out as good as they would with a veteran team. We are glad that "Ike" has two more years as he is a real athlete and will help B. H. S. in all athletics.

Carl Roberts was handicapped the first part of the season by inexperience but he soon became better and at the end of the season he was going like a house on fire.

He played the center position after Schoolfield dropped back to guard. Roberts will be with us another year.

George "Har" Harris, running guard, made up what he lacked in experience by his scrappiness. He is quick and aggressive and takes advantage of the opposing team's weakness. We are glad Harris has another year to play yet.

Claude Sharer, coach and physical director is a product of B. H. S., graduating with the class of '20. In 1919 the B. H. S. football team won the league championship with Sharer playing a leading role and it was through his efforts at coaching that the B. H. S. team tied for the 1922 season championship.

Basketball was not so successful on account of the inexperience of the team. Sharer's coaching was very good so let us wish that he will be back next year and have a better year of athletics.

Elmer McAdams, business manager, is sure a wonder at arranging games and taking care of money. Nothing got away from "Mac" and he always saw that the opposing teams and fans received a square deal while here. We hope that there will be nothing to keep McAdams from coming back and assuming the role of business manager once more.

The Season

The basketball season of 1922-23 can scarcely be termed a success; but how many of us ever stop to think that our athletics are just what we make them? They are composed of the student body, chosen out of the student body, and are playing for the school. When we fail to give the best we have to the team that represents us we can expect little from it, for it is the reflection of our spirit and enthusiasm. The people that are the first to knock are doing the least to advance the team or the school. Whatever may be your opinion of the season, you are bound to admit that every effort to make the team a winning team was made by the coach and players. The teams that the Bucyrus squad was matched against in the past season were teams made up of veteran players, while the Bucyrus squad was made up of players who were, for the most part, new at the game. We do not wish to make any excuses or apologies for the defeats we have suffered, because that is part of the game. It is part of sportsmanship. The finest thing in true sport is being a good loser, as well as a good winner. Henceforth, let us put our heart, soul and confidence in our teams and we shall have good reason to expect better results.

Reserves

Much of the success of the first teams, both boys and girls, is due to the Reserves. To enter a game without having previous opposition afforded it, is often disastrous to a team. In football it is probably the first season that two complete teams have been kept on the field and the only year that games were arranged for the second team. In basketball the second team had several games scheduled in which its members showed up well.

Although the girls' second team had no games arranged as it was hard enough to get games for the first team it fought bravely and gave the varsity many hard scrimmages. Only eleven men can play on a football team, and five on a basketball team and with a large bunch of Reserves each varsity man must do his best or give way to a man on the Reserve. The Reserves not only keep the varsity in shape but they also furnish material for teams of another year so let us give them the credit they have coming to them.

Girls' 1922-23 Basketball

The second years of girls' basketball under Miss Washburn's coaching began in December with forty girls out. Mabel Klein, captain and captain-elect, played left forward, while right forward was Verna Korb's position. Between Gertrude Corey, center and Doris Bertram, side center, places were creditably filled. Kathryn Fox had the position of left guard cinched and Margaret Powers the right.

The first game was played with Pemberville abroad and B. H. S. came home with a 27-7 defeat. But luck turned and Galion received the small end of the 13-14 score. This game, played at Galion was fast and interesting. With one more minute to play and the score a tie, a foul was shot by B. H. S., winning the game.

In the Forrest, at home, and the Galion return game, B. H. S. was nosed by the score of 18-20 in the former and 14-12 in the latter. Although these games were lost, the difference in the scores was small, yet B. H. S. played good clean games and feel confident that next year the season will be more successful.

Inter-Class Basketball

For the second successive year the Juniors have won the championship in the Inter-class tournament. They were, beyond all doubt, the best team, a well-balanced, fast, scrappy but clean group of players. Much of their success, however, is due to their coach, Mr. Wood, who did all he could to make the team a winning one and to keep it that way.

By winning the championship this year the Junior Class has been awarded the silver trophy cup as a token of its work.

Every team cannot be a winner, so the Senior Class decided to be losers. They set about to become the cellar champions, which they did without anyone disputing their claim to it.

The following is the standings of the teams:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Juniors	4	0	1.000
Sophomores	3	1	.750
Seventh and Eighth.....	2	2	.500
Freshmen	1	3	.250
Seniors	0	4	.000

Bowling and Track

With the formation of a minor bowling league at the "Y" alleys this winter, the Seniors decided to follow the footsteps of their predecessors, so they entered a team in the league. Although there was but one of the team who had bowled the year before, they managed to gather enough pins to win thirteen out of twenty-four games, which is a good showing for a green team.

The team was composed of "Mud" Metcalf, captain; "Nibs" McMichael, member of the '22 team, "P" Robertson, "Jimmy" Ahl, "Red" Coutts, "Ichabod" Keesy and Seymour Bennett. Keesy was the Berry of the year before, having a temper that would make the "Terrible Tempered Mr. Bangs" look like a piker.

Bowling is a good sport and a fine recreation and should be given more consideration by the students of Bucyrus High School. We hope that the two years' start that it has will be enough to give it the place on the Bucyrus High School sport calendar that it deserves.

—Perspiring Dust, '23.

The Track season of 1923 promises to be one of the best that Bucyrus High School has ever had. About twenty men reported to Coach Sharer at the close of the basketball season and they were immediately put through a good, hard preliminary training. Much more interest is being taken by the students as can be seen by the number of candidates who have reported. Several high schools of high track standing have asked for meets and Norwalk, Mansfield, Ada, Galion and Tiro have already been scheduled. If the team shows up good, as it should, it will be sent to the "Big Six" meet at Columbus and possibly to the High School meet at Cleveland. An invitation has been received by the team to attend the meet to be given at Pittsburgh by Carnegie Tech but it is not probable that the team will attend on account of the distance. In all the track prospects are very good and we hope that the season will be equally as successful.

—H. B. M., '23.

BASEBALL

BASEBALL, '22

The 1922 baseball season was nearly as successful as that of 1921 when the Bucyrus High School team lost but one game. The team of last year, however, had a much harder schedule but it had nearly as much success. Coach Baer gave much of his time in perfecting the team, and its success is largely due to his efficient coaching. The team completed the season with five victories and two defeats, well satisfied that they defeated the teams that marred their record.

BASEBALL, '23

There will be no baseball team to represent Bucyrus High School this year but each class will have a team to represent it in the Inter-class tournament. Each team will meet another one for one game, making six games in all. The faculty is organizing a team but in all probabilities it will be given a drubbing by its opponents. The Seniors expect to bring home the bacon because they have as good a team as any in the league. Well, no ball game was ever won until the last man was out in the ninth inning, anyhow.

"LEST WE FORGET"

Near the close of our Junior school year we were challenged by the Class of '22 to a tug-of-war at "Cat Heaven," the scene of all similar class struggles. We accepted and a team captained by "Fitch" Unger placed themselves on the east bank of the river and would still be there if it took the '22 graduates' strength to pull them out. After more than an hour of struggling and the Seniors were at the end of the rope we were awarded the judges' decision, which we greatly deserved. We may not be strong at basketball but just try and beat us at "tug o' war."

ACTIVITIES

Oratory and Debate

The introduction of oratory into B. H. S. marks the beginning of a new era, establishes an activity for greater fluency, presents another opportunity for winning honors and medals, keeps pace with her stride of progress, and increases the opportunities of her sons and daughters. To a small village, Kenton, by name, B. H. S. sends her first oratorical contestant on May 11, 1923. It is a contest of the Southern Division of the Northwestern Ohio High School Oratorical Association.

Donna Gray, a member of the class of '23, a fluent speaker of the debate squad of the same year, and a member of the Dramatic Club who with her ease and grace of delivery, her diligence and persistence in practice, her inherent public speaking ability and her standing as a student, is certain to represent B. H. S. well, as our first orator. While this is the first year for this activity, we feel that our first entrant will make the schools in the association sit up and take notice of B. H. S., and that we are to be reckoned with.

(As we entered the contest so late in the season we were unable to get a picture of the orator.—Editor.)

The debate season of 1923 was a very successful one. The squad was chosen in November after football season closed. The members immediately set to work willingly and industriously, studying and doing research work in some of the best libraries of the state.

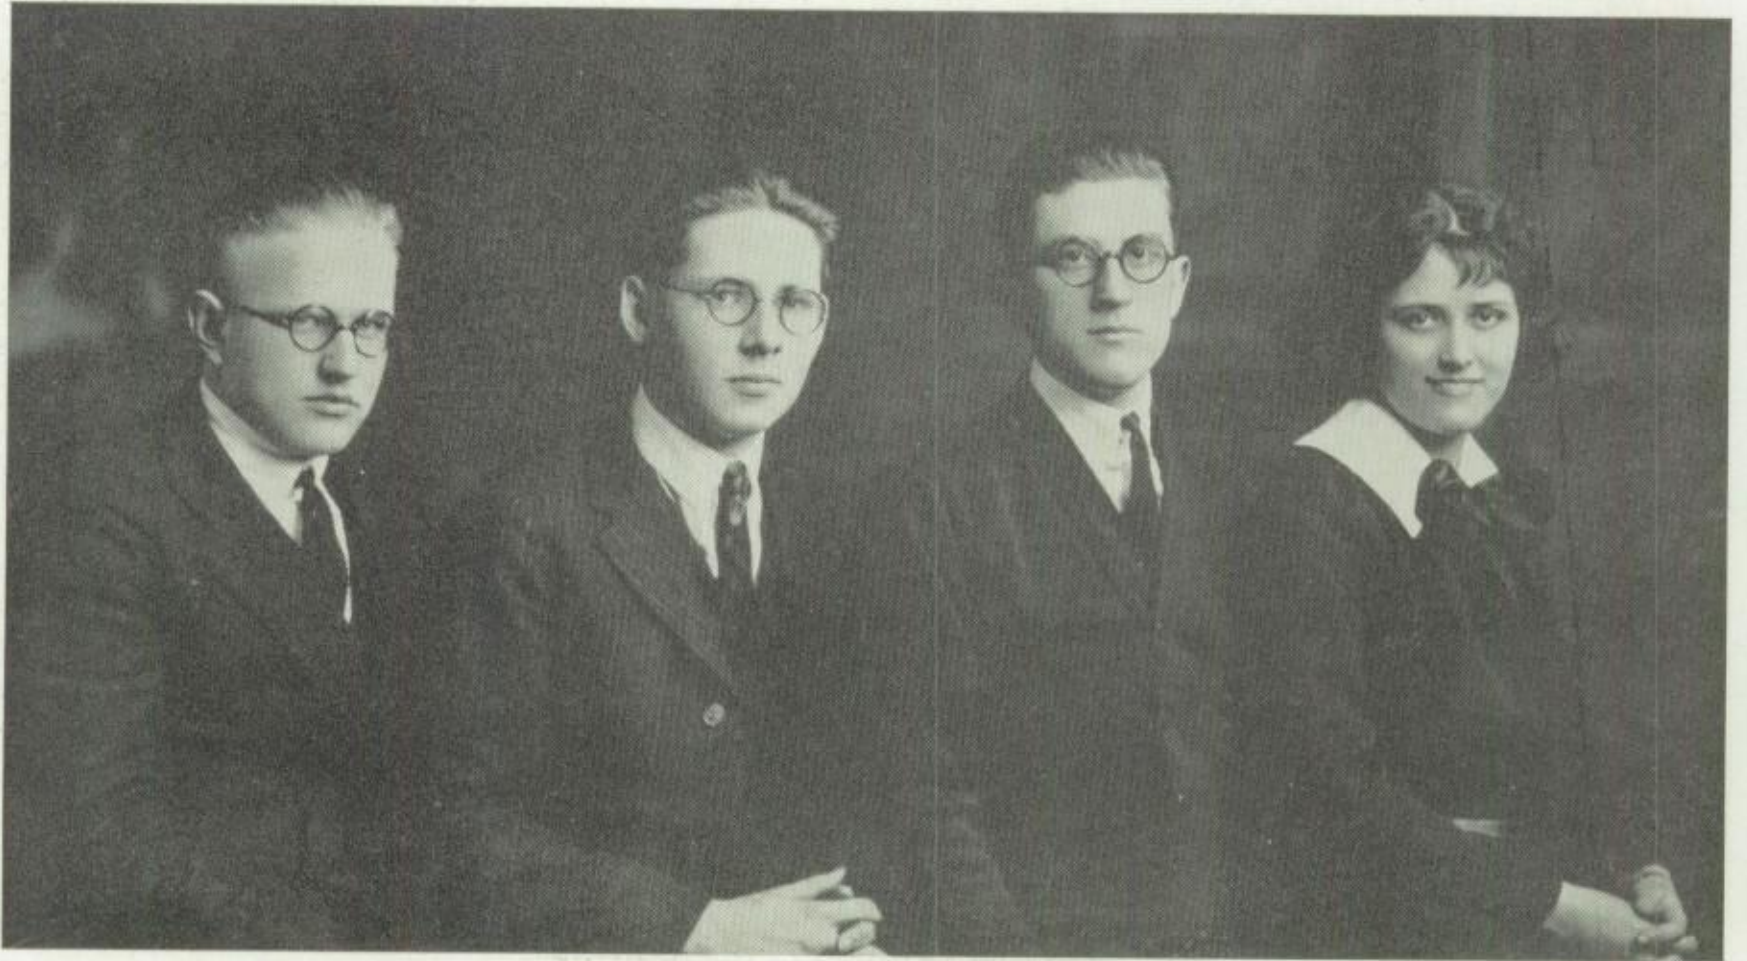

The coach, Mr. Jackson, is to be commended on his untiring efforts to produce winning team, in which he was very successful having turned out two of the finest teams that B. H. S. has ever produced.

Resolved, That the United States should grant the same rights to the Japanese as to Mediterranean Peoples.

B. H. S. participated in two triangular debates; Namely, Delaware, Marion and Bucyrus; and Bellefontaine, Galion and Bucyrus.

Bucyrus won one and lost one in each of the triangles. In the first the Affirmative won from Marion at home and the Negative lost to Delaware, at Delaware. In the second the Negative won from Bellefontaine at home and the Affirmative lost to Galion at Galion.

Affirmative Team

The Affirmative team was composed of C. Baker, a letter man of the season of '22, captain; Donna Gray, Richard Wentz, and George Moore, Alt. This was an excellent combination. It resulted in perfect harmony.

Carl did himself and the school justice in his clear-cut reasoning and easy manner. His ease and sincerity were two points which favorably impressed the audience as well as the judges. He proved himself a worthy captain.

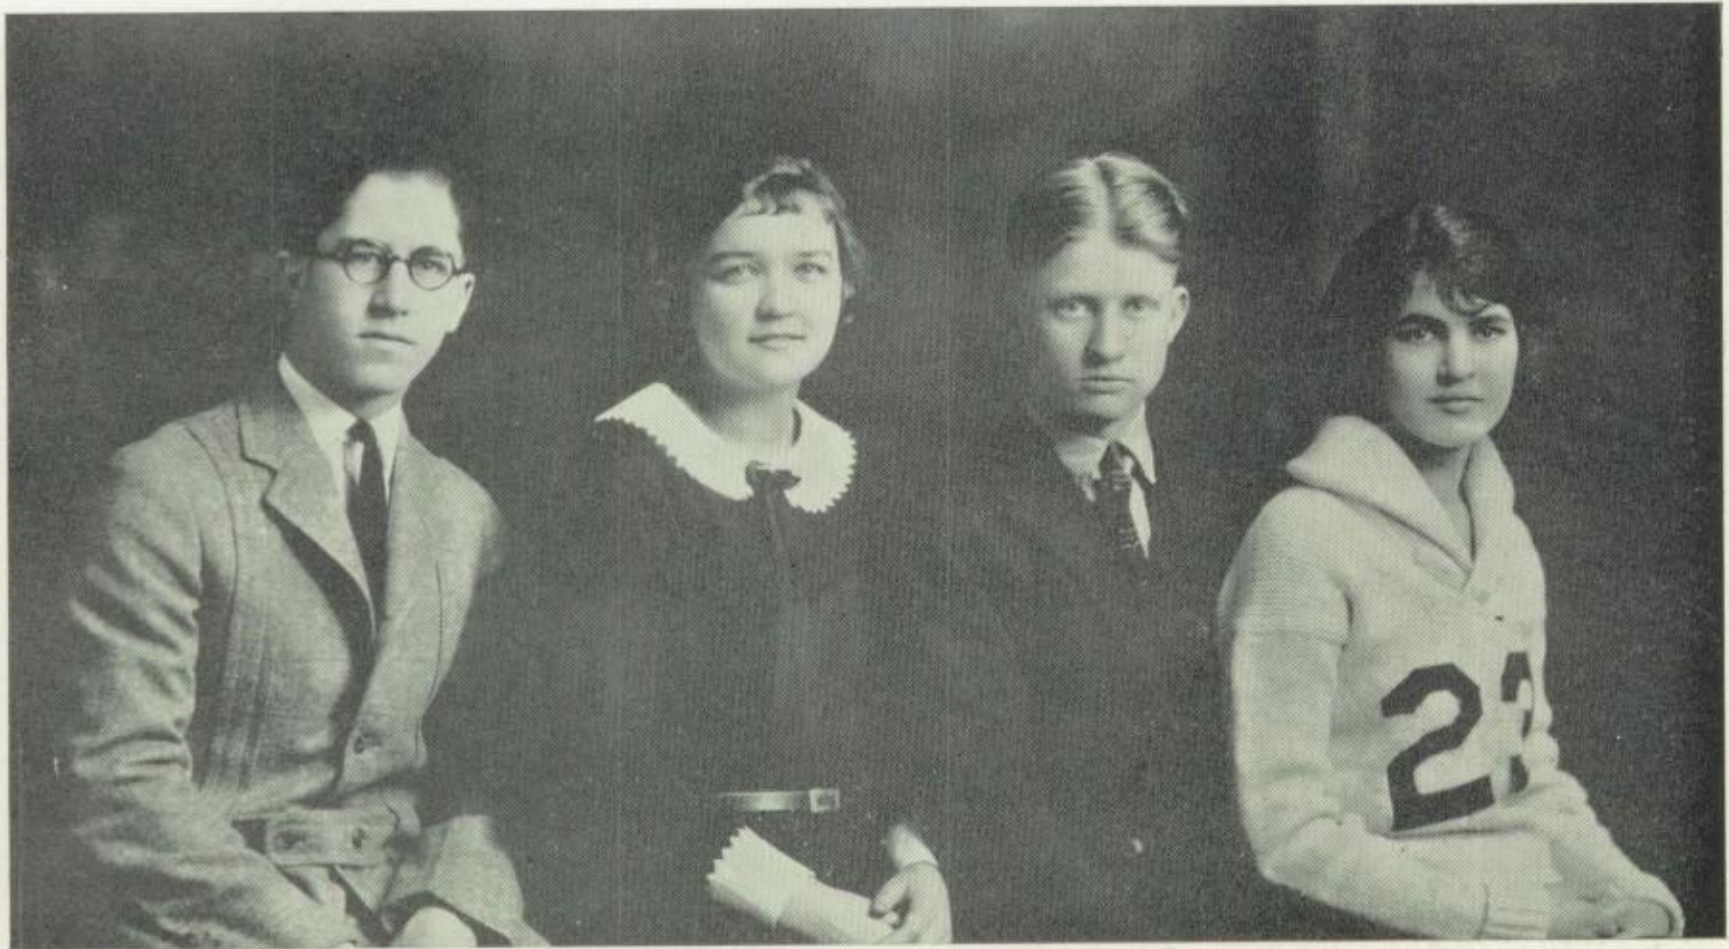

Donna was a very valuable asset to the team. Although this was her first year in debate, she won laurels both for herself and for her school. Her speech was a masterpiece in thought and logic. This, added to her wonder, smooth and sincere delivery made her indispensable to the team.

"Dick" was also a new addition to this year's debating squad. Nevertheless, he showed his ability to be exceptionally high. His logic and masterful appearance were great aids to the team's success.

George was a very capable alternate. Being a comer, the varsity should claim him next year. He could scarcely have been excelled as an alternate.

Negative Team

The Negative team was composed of Esther Bieber, a letter member of the 1922 season also, captain; Edward Pfleiderer, Catherine Fox and Leslie Linn, Alt.

"Bebe came back again this year on the defensive team. Although she will go out with the graduating class, we cannot forget how she pepped up the team and took the opponents off their feet with her famous rebuttals.

"Foxy" was a great contributing factor to the team's success. Her ease on the platform and her graceful and masterful delivery were all very valuable assets. First in constructive argument and then again in rebuttal she went strong.

"Eddie" that brainy Senior took his brains to the platform and did justice to his school. "Eddie" learns fast and after one defeat came back with glory to himself and school.

Leslie, although a Freshman, was one of the important supplements of the team. B. H. S. should claim him for three more year's of debating.

The Senior Dramatic Club

The Senior Dramatic Club, which was organized a few years ago, has filled an important place in the High School activities. The club this year is composed of approximately thirty members and is under the direction of Miss Coffin, assistant principal of the High School. Miss Coffin has devoted a great deal of her time and effort to the advancement of this organization, and much credit is due to her in making the production "The Charm School" a success.

"The Charm School" was given in the High School auditorium this year February 5th and all who witnessed it, declared it a success. The play is woven about:

David MacKenzie.....Harold Stebbins

A law student, considers impractical, though

It happens that a school for girls is left to Bevens by an aunt who died. Bevens decides to teach the girls charm, and turns the school into a "charm school." Elise Benedotti—and all the other girls—fall in love with him, and because of his seeming indifference toward her, runs away. However he finds her, brings her back and in the end wins her.

The Bucyrrian Bi-weekly

The Bucyrrian contributed much to the High School in the year of 1922-23. Chronicling the events of school life in Bucyrus High School and helping shape student policies. During the year seventeen regular issues of "The Bucyrrian" were published by the staff. The circulation totaled over five hundred and the size of the paper was increased to six pages near the middle of the second semester. Although several members of the staff had had experience in newspaper work in a small way, the staff as a whole was new at the game of editing a High School paper and time was required for everyone to become accustomed to the work. Several changes were made in the personnel of the staff during the year which hampered the work to some extent, yet the staff members did excellent work in all of the departments. The editorial department should be specially commended for its wide-awake news stories and the business department for the efficient financial management of the paper. The advertising was of exceptionally high quality. Mr. Ellis and Miss McBane deserve credit for their fine work as faculty advisers.

THE STAFF: Editor-in-Chief, Carl Baker; Associate Editor, John Schuler; Sport Editor, Robert McMichael; Sports Writer, Charles Ghist; Literary Editor, Geneva McHenry; Society Editor, Esther Bieber; Feature Editor, Evelyn Sherer; Exchange Editor, Arlene Rice; Alumni Editor, Martha Mollencop; Business Manager, Richard Wentz; Assistant Business Manager, Leslie Linn; Advertising Manager, Charles Allen; Circulation Manager, James Beam; Faculty Adviser, Mr. E. J. Ellis.

Evelyn Schieber, Robert Shumaker, Robert Ackerman and Ernest Shealy have contributed much to the success of the Bucyrrian as assistants in the business department.

Marjorie Jones and Francis Zinke deserve credit for their work while in charge of the advertising department.

The E. T. Club

The E. T. Club has just completed its fourth year of activity, which has been the most successful in the history of the organization. It numbers a membership of fifty Junior and Senior boys. Meetings have been held the first Tuesday in each month and special meetings have taken place at the close of the first semester and at the end of the school year. The attendance at these meetings has been excellent. The work of the club during the past year has been characterized by enthusiasm, cooperation and a fine spirit of sportsmanship. Many persons outside the High School have aided the club by their presence and inspiring talks at the different meetings. Among these are: Mr. H. E. Cook, cashier Second National Bank of Bucyrus; Rev. W. H. Heldstab of Crestline, Rev. H. M. Eagleson of Bucyrus, Mr. John Hopley, editor of the Bucyrus Evening Telegraph, Superintendent J. R. Patterson of Bucyrus, Mr. P. H. Ryder, president of The Ryder Brass Foundry of Bucyrus, and our own athletic coach, Mr. Claude B. Sharer. Plans are now under way to make the E. T. Club a bigger and better organization in 1923-1924 than it was last year.

—John Schuler, '24.

Hi-Y Club

One more successful year is about to end for the Hi-Y Club. This high school club is composed of Clarence Schoolfield, President; "Ed" Pfleiderer, Vice-President; Harlan Stuckman, Secretary-Treasurer; "Mud" Metcalf, Carl Baker, Robert Shumaker, "Kid" Ghist, "Bob" Ackerman, Carl Roberts and "Eddie" Norton. In addition, the following have just been elected into it: Charles Allen, Lowell Sherer, "Dave" Rogers, "Butz" Pfleiderer, "Toby" Roberts and Walter James. The leaders are: Mr. Patton from the Y. M. C. A.; Coach Sharer and Mr. Wood from the High School, and Mr. T. C. Kiess, of the Board of Directors of the "Y."

The organization has been very much alive this year. It put on the best Father-Sons Dinner ever held in Bucyrus. Through the efforts of this club the High School has had the opportunity of hearing several very fine speakers such as Mr.

Geoffrey, F. Morgan and Daniel T. Swamiddoss, of India.

The headquarters of the club have been enlarged and now the club rooms consist of the large room at the "Y," which was formerly Mr. Shonert's Studio, and a completely equipped kitchen and dining room. This has enabled the brothers to entertain at different times. The club had a big brother's feed for the underprivileged "kids," and an entertainment for the girl friends of the members. These would not have been possible under the old conditions.

Although the members of the club have had many good times together, they have not lost sight of its object, which is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character.

—Edward Pfleiderer, '23.

High School Orchestra

The High School Orchestra of 1922-23, consisted of a Junior and Senior High Orchestra numbering fifty-six in membership.

Orchestra in the Bucyrus High School has been a part of the curriculum for the past three years, practice being held for a period of sixty-two minutes every day, thereby enabling the members to make great progress in the course of a year.

The orchestra this year has functioned in many school activities, such as operettas and Dramatic Club plays.

If this plan is continued for a number of years we feel sure that Bucyrus High School will soon be the proud possessor of a little symphony orchestra.

"Chimes of Normandy"

The Bucyrus High School Chorus presented to the public on January 31, 1923, the "Chimes of Normandy," by Planquette.

The principal parts were creditably taken by Isabel McFarland, Eleanor McIlvaine, Carlisle Shafer, Darwin Crall, Walter James, Leslie Siegman, Marjorie Jones, Helen Lea, Mary Secrist, Gladys Trout, James Kehrer, John Long and Garold Gaa.

The splendid chorus work together with the attractive costuming made an evening of delightful musical entertainment.

Special mention should be given to Frances Zincke, at the piano and Donald Gaa, on the violin, for their excellent rendition. The production was under the direction of Miss Barbara Kantzer.

Junior High Student Council

This year has undoubtedly been the most successful one for Junior High Student Council. A number of things were accomplished by the Council the first semester through the helpful programs and informal sessions; but the most important was the drawing up and adopting of the constitution for the Council.

This constitution aims to make each member more efficient in the particular work assigned him; each officer more able to carry out his official duties; and as representatives of the whole Junior High student body, a feeling of responsibility is created. But the main object of this constitution is to conduct the affairs of the Council in a fitting and orderly manner.

At the beginning of the second semester, the Council began work immediately. As in the first semester, the publicity, social, welfare and program committees were chosen.

Several perplexing problems were solved by the Council during the second semester. Some of these were, uncleanliness of lockers and corridors, running in corridors, and following up lost articles. Committees were chosen to assist the teachers to overcome these and each Council member made it his aim to help get the ideas of the Council across.

Thus in many ways has the Junior High Student Council been helpful to the body of students it represents, although sometimes unknown to them, and if they continue doing so no doubt a bright future is before them, and those they represent.

The High School Band

Bucyrus High School has added to its curriculum this year the teaching of wind instruments. This work is under the capable direction of Mr. J. C. Hazen of the J. W. Wainwright Company of Fostoria.

Those who enroll in the work, paying a small fee monthly, are furnished instruments and are given a private lesson each week. This has at last enabled us to have that which we have longed for so many years, namely a High School Band. The rehearsals are held both in regular school time and after school hours. They are making wonderful progress and although they have not appeared many times we must remember that this year it is just in the making. However they did appear May 30, 1923, and made Bucyrus High School feel proud as they played and marched through the streets to the snappy direction of the drum major, Donald Gaa.

We feel sure that with such progress as has been made this year that next year we will have a splendid band to play for us all year. Much credit is due to Mr. J. C. Hazen's untiring efforts.

The Honor Society

Within the last three years there has been organized in many high schools of the United States charters of the National Honor Society. Our high school was one of the first fifty in the country to receive a charter in this society.

The purpose of this organization is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, and to promote leadership, and to develop character in the students of the American secondary schools. With such a purpose underlying the formation of this society it promises to mean much in secondary education.

Membership in such an organization is limited to students of the Senior Class who have maintained throughout their high school course such a scholarship record as would place them in the upper fourth of the class. From this group not more than 15% of any class can be elected. The factors which govern this election in addition to scholarship are leadership, character and service.

Only a part of the Seniors have been chosen as members of the society this year, the rest will be chosen before commencement. The ones selected are:

Isabel McFarland.
Catherine O'Donell.
John Sears.
Mary Secrist.
Esther Bieber.
Richard Wentz.

FITCH

PALS

MOVIE DREAMS

THREE OF A KIND

SMILES

STEPPIN' OUT

A FULL HOUSE

ALL ALONE

HOLD THAT LINE!

ON A SUMMER'S DAY

BABES IN THE WOOD

AIN'T I CUTE?

A Presumptuous Hobo

He was nicknamed "Watermelon" by his friends and the name stuck because it fitted. His wide expanse of mouth prompted his hobo friends to give him this ridiculous name. His comrades who numbered three in all were called by the respective names of "Mike," "Ham" and "Jim."

The story opens on a hot summer day in June, and all four were seated on the bank of a river, arguing, talking, sleeping and smoking.

"Well," said Mike getting up with a yawn, "Let's go in to town and see how the rations are for today, uh pals?"

"Suts me," said Ham and Mike in chorus.

"Well what about you lazy-bones?" asked Ham seeing that Watermelon had not replied.

"Well, youse guys can walk around in this hot sun if you want to; but I'm agonna stay right here under this shady tree."

"All right, but I'll bet youse five to one that within two hours youse will be wishin' you had come with us. Come along guys, me stomach's gettin' most powerful empty."

"Solong ole man," said the three as they got up and sauntered away.

Left alone Watermelon looked all around him and finally stretched out on the ground and prepared for a sleep, when he heard a rumbling noise which seemed to be coming nearer and nearer. He looked over his shoulder and saw coming down the road an automobile. It was a new one, and it was hitting not less than fifty.

Before Watermelon realized it, he heard a screeching of brakes and he saw the car stop not more than fifty feet from him. Because of the thick under-growth of trees, Watermelon could see plainly but could not be seen himself—which was fortunate.

While he looked a young man nearly the same build as Watermelon got down from the front seat and started walking towards the river. Watermelon laid down again and he was nearly asleep when suddenly he heard a "Splash!" He turned and saw the young man in swimming farther down the river.

Suddenly a bright idea come to Watermelon. He got up, he looked at the car, he looked at the man and he turned and ran quickly through the underbrush, stooped and grabbed the man's clothing from the edge of the pool and beat it to the road.

His first thoughts were for his friends. Should he let them in on this deal or should he do it alone? After a few seconds deliberation he decided they would only be in the way, so he started taking off his clothing, working swiftly and silently and in five minutes he had changed from a wretched and ragged tramp to a good-looking young man—except for the fact that he needed a haircut and shave.

"That is very simply remedied," said Watermelon to himself, "I'll go to the village and get fixed up right, but—hello! let's see how the cash account stands. He searched through the pockets and found a wallet which contained a key to the Grand Hotel at the next town, a card which bore the inscription, "Phillip Morris, Dealer in Stocks and Bonds," and last but not least enough money to last him for a whole month. Such a good find encouraged Watermelon to the extent of taking the car too.

He stepped in and started the car and drove off at a rapid rate. An hour later found Mr. Phillip Morris alias Watermelon in room number fifty-seven at the Grand Hotel. He was searching every trunk, bag, and sack and also every nook and crevice of the room.

He sat down on the edge of the bed, and tried to think. His brain was all in a whirl after so many surprising discoveries. Should he keep on assuming the life of Phillip Morris and enjoy himself or should he go back to his pals now?

"With a wad of dough and a car like dat, it wouldn't be me old self if I turned down a chance like this."

But on the other hand though, what if he were caught—oh well, he told himself, "What if I am? I'd be getting three square meals a day." So with these in mind Watermelon decided on the former.

Let us pass over the few details that might describe Watermelon's journey to the city. For the most part it was uneventful. Within a week's time we find Mr. Watermelon installed into the life of Phillip Morris, from home to office.

"Well, we'll see you tonight at the Club dance Phil," said Ralph Morgan, as the gang rose to go.

"All right, s'long fellows drop in again," replied Phil.

Now at this point in the story it might be well if we would stop and let our reader understand a little more of Watermelon's previous life and his true personality and character. Previous to his being a hobo he had been a young man of high rank in the social world. He had fine friends, lots of money, a fine education and he had been generally termed by his friends as a "good sport." His mother, of whom he was very fond, died in his Freshman year in college and his father died the year after he had graduated. His death was a bitter disappointment to him, and he found that his father had left him absolutely no part of the vast fortune. He had been stunned by this disclosure and he took to wandering about going from one place to another. He never worked, while he had money, and at last he found himself going from bad to worse and finally found himself with the three friends who have been mentioned. His good education and manners for Watermelon's etiquette in New York society.

"Well, my little play has worked thus far," said Watermelon to himself, and added aloud. "Now for home and a boring time at the dance tonight."

Upon arriving at his newly acquired home, Watermelon was informed by the butler that Miss Kingston had called for him. This was so sudden and it startled Watermelon so that he was about to make a reply when the telephone bell rang. The butler summoned Watermelon, and he with a heart beating at a high crescendo went to the 'phone.

"Hello," said Watermelon.

"Hello," sounded a sweet voice on the other end of the wire. "Do you know who this is?" came the sweet voice again.

"No, can't say as I do," replied Watermelon.

"Why, Phil, don't you know my voice anymore?"

"Well-er-a-er you see my hearing isn't as good as it was, I am afraid you will have to tell me."

"Why, Phil, I thought sure you would know me. This is Janet."

"Janet—who?"

"Why, Janet Kingston of course. How many other Janets do you know?"

"Just one, but really Janet you'll have to forgive me I've had a very strenuous day at the office and I'm all unnerved."

"Well, of course I will, poor boy, but don't ever do it again will you?"

"Never, I suppose I shall see you at the Club's dance this evening?"

"See me? Well I hope you will notice me since you are taking me. I'd feel very slighted indeed if you didn't see me, but of course, I suppose that's another of your jokes."

"Well-er-a-er-ah yes, yes, yes, I-I-I thought perhaps you had forgotten."

"No, I never forget my engagements with you."

"Well that's mighty fine of you Janet, I hope you'll continue to feel that way about it, and I'll call for you at nine o'clock."

"Oh, isn't that a trifle early?"

"Well, ten then, how's that?"

"Much better, thank you, at ten then. Goodbye."

"Whew—that sure was a narrow escape. But if she is one-half as sweet as her voice, meebby not such a dull time after all," and Watermelon went to his room to dress for the dance.

But in the meantime our readers are probably wondering what has become of the Phillip Morris. No, he is not dead, but on the contrary very much alive.

After an hour's swim Phil climbed upon the bank and began to look for his clothes—they were nowhere to be seen and while he was still in the act of hunting for them, Watermelon's friends came back. They, of course, thought it was Watermelon and yelled at him.

"Say, where'd you git that haircut and shave?"

"The devil take the haircut and shave, what I want to know is, who took my clothes? Some practical jokes of these back woodsman I suppose, however it's gone far enough and I wish he'd bring them back."

The three looked at each other in stupefaction and suddenly a smile came to Ham's face.

"Well, if this ain't the best joke ever, Watermelon ain't so dumb as he looks," said Ham. And all three suddenly broke into a peal of laughter.

"Well what in thunder is so darn funny?" Hustle around and see if you can find any clothes lying about in the bushes instead of standing there yelling at the top of your throats."

"Young man," said Mike, "I'm afraid your doomed to a bitter disappointment. I'll bet a five spot to a copper that at this minute your clothes are more than fifty miles away."

"What! Do you mean to say that someone has actually taken them and 'beat it'?"

"That and nothin' else but," said Jim.

"Well, I'll be hanged. If this isn't a pretty mess."

"Say!" said Ham, who had been beating about in the bushes, "say here's Watermelon's clothes."

"Who's Watermelon?" asked Phil.

"Watermelon is a pal of ours, he's the guy that has taken your clothes, and say, now that I think of it you two sure look enough alike to be twins."

"You say we look alike? Well that's some clue."

"Say, partner it looks to me as if you'd have to take an extended bath or wear these clothes," said Ham.

"Any old thing suits me, just so I can get out of this cursed hole."

Phil dressed quickly and soon all four were walking towards the road. Upon reaching the highway Phil stopped and looked right and left and finally exclaimed, "Well, I'll be hanged if he hasn't even taken my car. By jove he surely did a neat job of it. Well it looks to me as if we would have to hoof it."

"Aw, we're used to that," replied Ham and Mike in chorus.

So the four started over the same road and in the same direction as Watermelon had taken. Upon arriving at the town

Phil went to the Grand Hotel and there he found that all his bags, and clothes were also missing.

"Say fellows, I have a happy thought, how far is this village of Cortland from New York City?"

"It's about two hundred miles," said Jim.

"Let me see, this is Monday, if we start now and get plenty of lifts we ought to make it by Thursday. Isn't that pretty fair calculating?"

"That's about right—provided we get plenty of lifts."

"Oh, that will be easy. Now I'm anxious to make it by Thursday because I have an important dinner dance engagement, so we'll have to travel some speed," returned Phil.

"Aw, that will be easy. You get the lifts and we'll ride along. Come on, let's go!" and they started.

But going back to Watermelon, he is having a terrible time.

"I know I'm going to be found out tonight. I'll bet she'll know the difference, but I'll go and make the best of the situation now that I'm into it."

Let us remind you dear reader that this is Thursday night, and the day set for Phil and the three friends to arrive, in other words the end of Watermelon's good time.

"Gee! it's nine-thirty now. I'd better beat it after the Jane—now what did she say her name was? Jane—Hean—Janis—Oh, Janet! Janet Kingston, hm-mm that sounds pretty good."

Watermelon arrived at the Kingston home wondering what would be the next turn in this queer episode. At a few minutes after ten Janet came down the stairway of Kingston home and walked rapidly towards Phil, her hands out-stretched in greeting and a bright smile on her face.

"Hello Phil, my how you have tanned this summer, and you've changed a trifle in looks too. Did you have a good time?"

"Just fine," answered Watermelon, "never better in my life."

Janet and Watermelon went to the dance and the evening passed without any serious blunders on the part of Water-

A Presumptuous Hobo, Concluded

melon, and no one suspected his being an imposter.

Day after day passed and still no sign of Phil and the three pals and within two weeks' time Watermelon was wild about Janet. But all good things have an ending sooner or later and so it was with Watermelon.

He was in his office one afternoon when a clerk entered and announced that four tramps wished to see him. Watermelon immediately suspected Ham, Mike and Jim—but who was the fourth?

"Send them in," answered Watermelon.

The four came in, his three pals and a stranger.

"Well, if it isn't my old pals of the road; but who's the guy that has taken my place?"

"The guy that's taken your place is the guy who's place you've taken," said Jim with a laugh.

"Well I'll be hanged. All right call the cops, the jig's up, but it sure was a swell time while it lasted."

"Just a minute, not so fast. I guess we can settle this outside the police court," said Phil Morris stepping up. What I want to know is, why did you do it? You don't look like that sort of a fellow and by jove, you must have had a swell time going to all the pink teas and dances and golfing and week-end parties, without being detected. We surely look enough alike to be brothers. But to get back to business, I ask you again, what made you do such a thing?"

"Well, to make a long story short," said Watermelon, "I'll tell you an incident of my younger life. I had always been a ne'er-do-well and in my Freshman year my mother died and year after my graduation my father died leaving the entire estate to my brother. This shock and grief over my parents completely disheartened me and I left home and for three years I have wandered from one place to another, and finally fell in with these good pals, and for a year or so I have been with them. I have never heard from my brother except in an indirect way, and that was concerning his business ability. They say he has changed his name because of his father's business competitors. My real name is Donald Baxter and my brother is Phil Baxter. Perhaps you—because you are a man of the world—have come in contact with him."

But before Phil was able to answer the question a clerk entered and announced: "Miss Janet Kingston."

"Janet," cried both Phil and Don.

"Yes, here I am Phil," she said as she walked towards Don, "Oh, but I didn't mean to intrude," Janet said on noticing the others.

"You are not intruding," answered Don. "Miss Kingston meet the real Phillip Morris," said Don.

"The real Phillip Morris, but aren't you Phillip Morris?" she asked.

"No, Janet, I am only an imposter and now I must say good-bye," said Don quietly moving towards the door.

"Not so fast," said Phil, "you have made your confession now it is my turn. I am not Phillip Morris either, but rather I am your brother, Phillip Baxter. Don, it wasn't my fault that we separated four years ago, and I have tried for the last four years to locate you and all my efforts were in vain, but now under the most peculiar circumstances we have found each other, never to be separated again."

"But don't—I-I don't quite understand all this," said Janet.

"Of course you don't," said the brothers.

"But now that we have found each other let's celebrate," suggested Phil.

"Well I guess we'd better be mosing along pals," said Ham, "since Watermelon ain't gonna be put in the cooler we won't be of any use around here."

Both the brothers shook hands with the three hobos and when they left each had enough money to buy a feed worthy of a prince.

The next day people who passed Phil Morris' office saw a new plate on the door, which read:

Annual Staff Will

We, the Annual Staff, being exceptionally well versed in financial affairs and by resorting unceasingly to the pinchpenny theory, have been able to accumulate an enormous excess of wealth amounting to and not exceeding the sum of four thousand eight hundred fifty-five dollars and thirty-two cents ($4,855.32). Not having further use for said "kale" and realizing as we do that: "Money is the root of all evil," we will attempt to distribute this, and in so doing make the following disbursements, hoping that it will be dedicated for the betterment and progress of our school, including pupils and faculty thereof:

To the janitors we give $2,000 in bills that they may keep the home fires burning.

To miss Julian we give a one-way ticket to Wapakoneta and a huge sum for cosmetics.

To Miss Beer, Miss Mills, Mr. Dowell and Mr. Wood we give the enormous sum of $5.00 for hunting licenses.

To Miss Logan we give $20.00 which may be used to purchase several more jazz records.

To Mr. Simpson we give $5.00 for a celluloid neck-tie.

To Miss Washburn we give a ransom of $5.00 if she will tell us who this Jim is of whom she often speaks.

The remainder we bet on the Seniors in the present Inter-class baseball league.

Benjamin Franklin—"He who bloweth not his own nose the same shall not be blown."

Nero (while Rome burns)—"I'm a hot violinist."

Christopher Columbus—"Twas midnight on the ocean, and not a traffic cop in sight."

Wm. Jennings Bryan—"You can't make a monkey out of me. Nature took her course."

Noah (on the ark)—"Goodness gracious! The sails lack, and the elephant has appendicitis!"

Sir Isaac Newton—"When the lemon fell it fell down."

Brigham Young—"That's where my money goes, etc."

Sir Walter Raleigh (throwing down his coat before the Queen)—"Step on it, kid."

Cleopatra—"Mark Antony, you've been drinking again! I smell onions on your breath."

The Sheik—"You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him wash."

Solomon—"Never marry the same woman twice."

Socrates—"A sock on the foot is worth two in the eye."

Conan Doyle (studying spiritualism)—"I find that they can be preserved in bottles indefinitely."

Ben. Turpin—"The wicked flea, when no man pursueth, bit the dog in the basement."

Jonah (in the whale)—"The gizzard's the next stop. Toot, toot, sausage."

Archimedes (formulating laws of floating bodies)—"After several weeks the odor becomes offensive."

Napoleon—"If you want a thing well chewed, chew it yourself."

Aristotle—"Everything moves in cycles. Some go in bicycles, others in tricycles and motorcycles, and even water goes into icycles."

Julius Caesar—"If a bowlegged daus-hund perambulates at the rate of sixteen bolegged miles in a bolegged hour, how long did it take Lincoln to cross the Delaware with a pair of bolegged oars?"

Daniel Webster—"In onion there is strength."

Methusela—"If at first your rooster lays no eggs, try, try a hen."

Herod to John the Baptist—"Pick up thy head and talk."

Santa Claus—"It don't pay to be crooked. All pretzels are half baked."

Volstead—"Eat drink, and get stewed, tomorrow you'll see the judge."

Andrew Jackson (addressing his last supper)—"Get to your place, we'll have no uprisings here."

Enrico Caruso—"I shall now sing that beautiful song entitled 'Something's Rotten in Denmark,' composed by S. K. Unk."

Andy Gump—"He who laughs last is slow in getting the point."

Rivets and bolts! Rivets and bolts! Nuts!

LIFE'S LITTLE JOKES

(With Apologies to Rube Goldberg)

Opportunity knocks at every man's door, but it never kicks in the panels.

Persons who play Post Office should not eat onions.

Many people take fruit to the poor and sit on the bedside and eat it.

None but the brave have the nerve to pair.

A wife in the house is worth two in a divorce court.

The early bird is generally late for breakfast.

Lace makes waist, by golly.

If time was money—Oh! you jeweler.

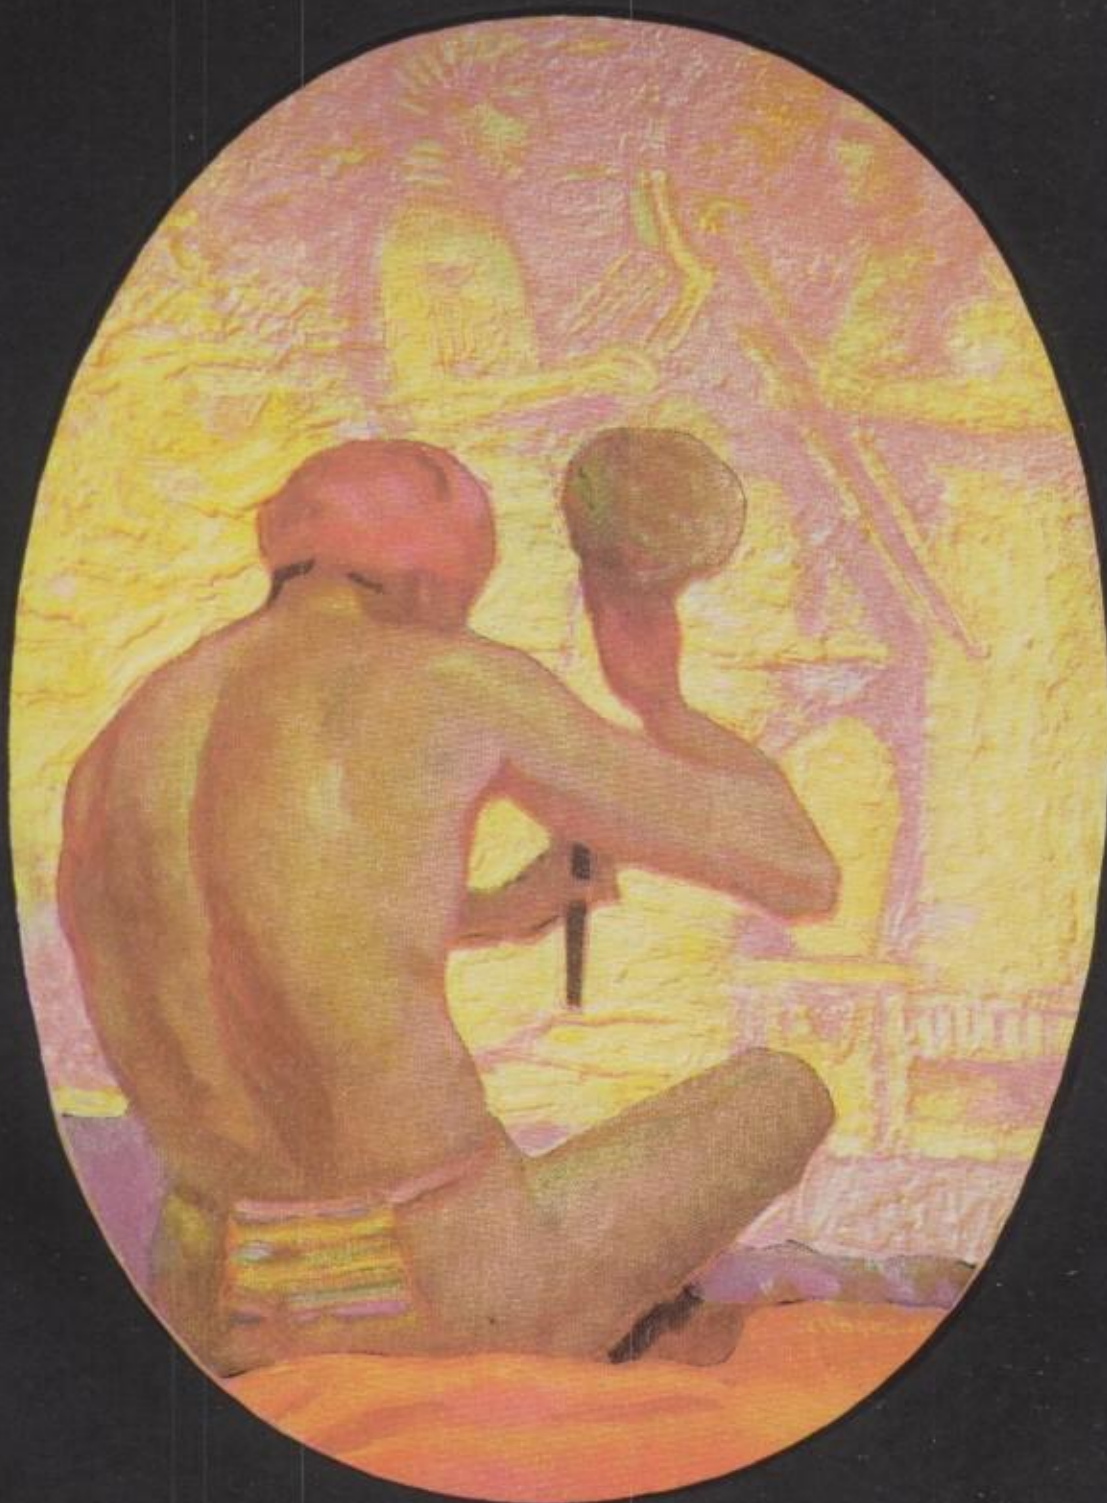

A foot in the shoe is worth fifty on a tack.

Don't do today what you can put off 'till tomorrow.

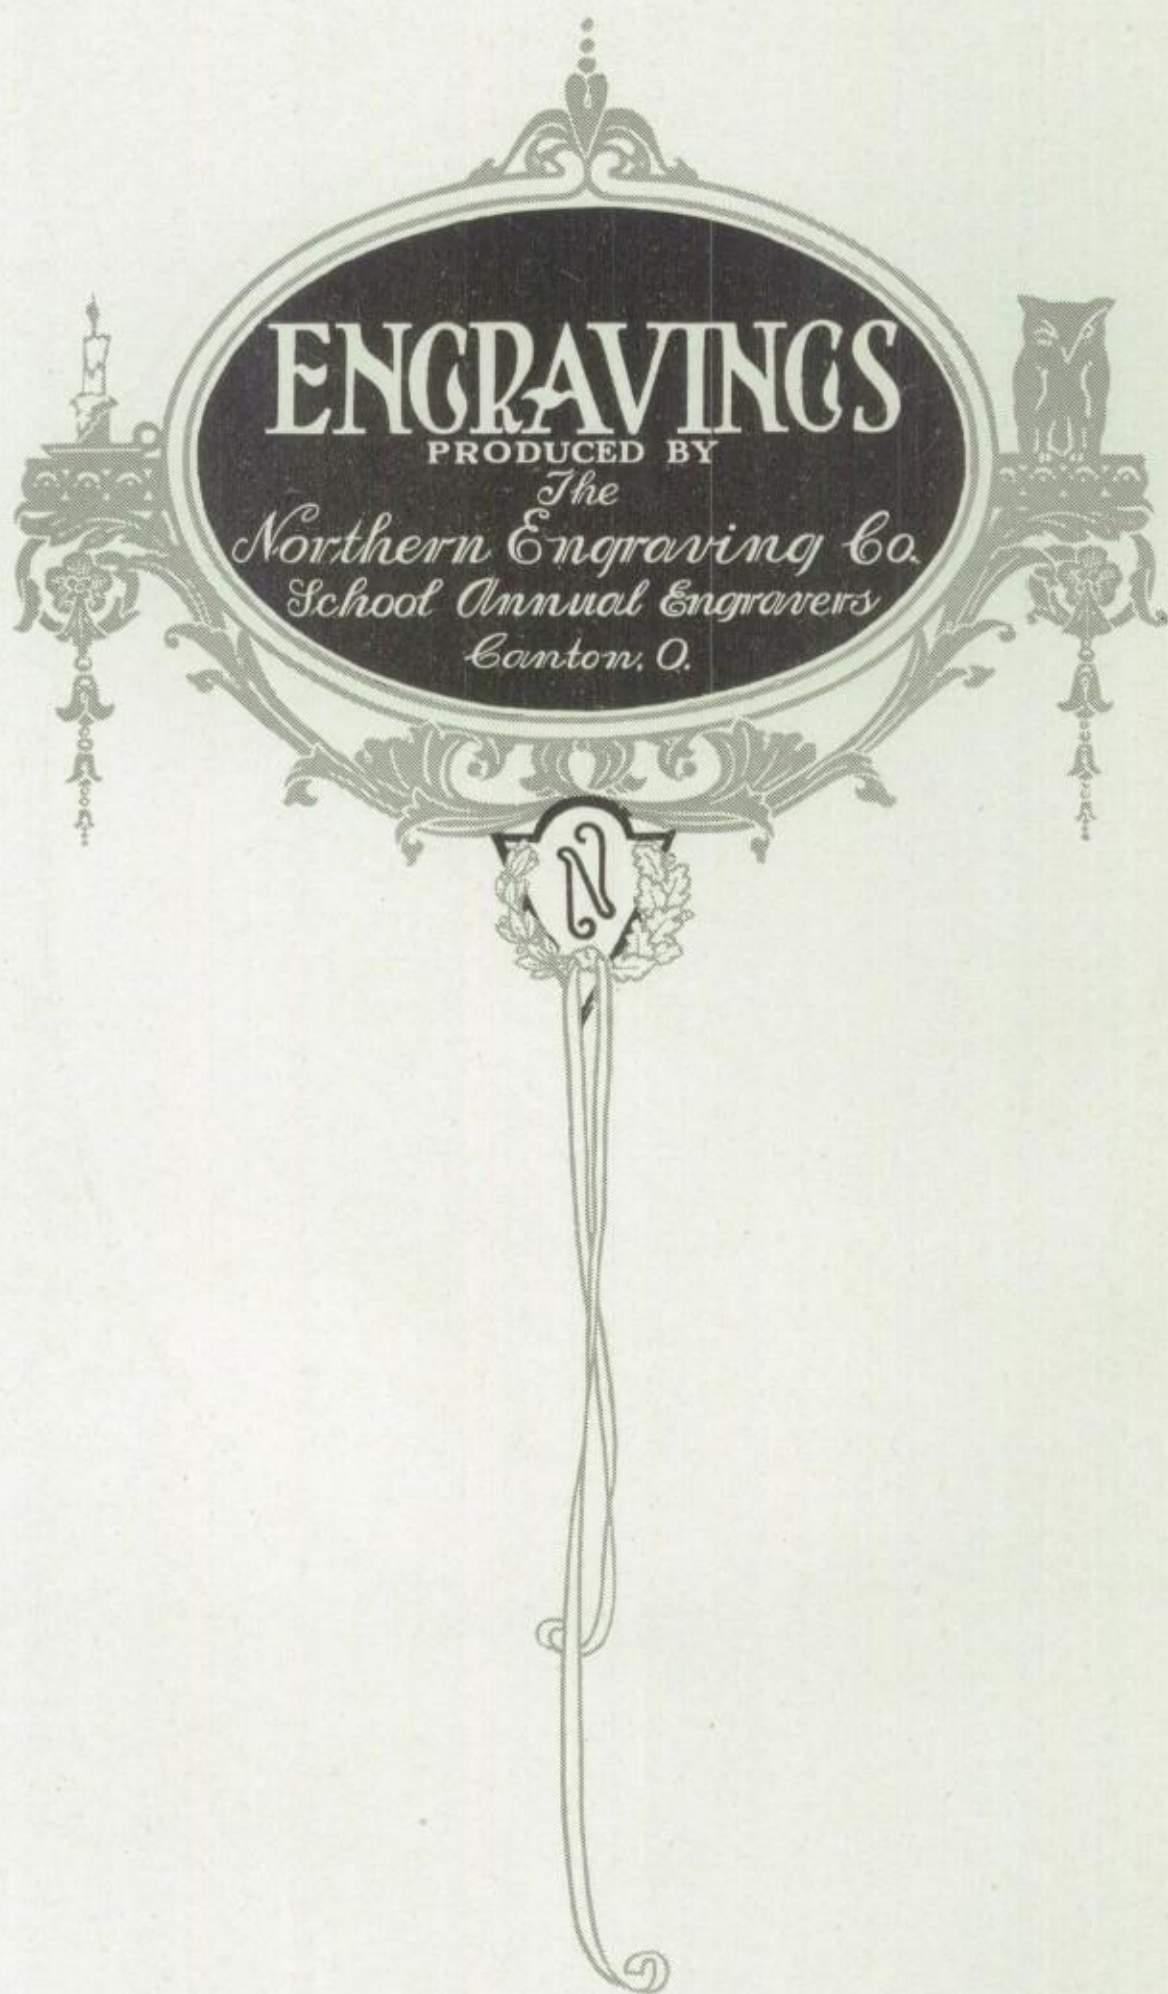

A pretty girl with cigarette breath is about as attractive as a rosebud that has been picked out of a bar room cuspidor.

Money talks because they put a woman's head on it.

If you can't smile, pretend you have a cracked lip.

MAUD MILLER (Paraphrased)

Maud Miller on a summer day,
With her fellow ran away
In a big, swell touring car,
Scouting for a preacher far.
Maud's father saw the fleeting pair,
Smelled the gasoline scented air;
Caught a mule whose name was Jane,
And galloped down the dusty lane;
The mobile very swiftly ran,
But burned the oil all out the can,
The motor stopped upon a hill,
But Jane ran on just fit to kill.
Alas for the maid! Alas for the man,

SALIENT FACTS REGARDING THE CREDITS, AND STANDING OF TIFFIN BUSINESS UNIVERSITY

1. The two year Commercial-Normal Teacher Training Course has been approved by the State Department of Education of Ohio, graduates receiving State Certificates the day of their graduation without an examination.
2. The school is a member of the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools of America.
3. T. B. U. is the only school, college, or university of any kind in Ohio, with a licensed, registered C. P. A., (Certified Public Accountant) on a full time daily teaching schedule, with the exception of Ohio State University.
4. The school has been recognized by the Federal Government, and has trained vocational men placed in the school by the Vocational Board, the tuition being paid by the U. S. Government. Uncle Sam also conducts a Civil Service examination in Tiffin the second Tuesday of each month for the benefit of T. B. U. graduates.
5. Two instructors on the school faculty hold A. M. degrees, the one from O. S. U., and the other from Columbia; one holds the C. P. A., one the LL.B. and two others are graduates of the Gregg Shorthand School of Chicago, having specialized in methods of teaching Gregg shorthand and touch typewriting; teaching staff includes seven instructors.
6. Graduates are regularly accepting positions with many of the leading corporations of America.

NINE DISTINCT COURSES ARE OFFERED AT THE UNIVERSITY, AS FOLLOWS:

A person who is short and plump and stout,
Who is, witty and clever, but shy,
Whose face never showed a frown or a pout
Or a tear trickling down from her eye,
Is the person whom we, in wrath speak her name.
As we think of the deeds she has done
That has caused us much misery, embarrassment and shame
And disgraced us with an unbearable pun.
A position she held, on the Bucyrrian Staff
The Joke Editor, if you please,
Although her jokes never caused a laugh
We could not accept them with ease.
For they were about us and things that we did,
Some true but the majority false,
For it is nothing for her to tell a fib
Ah! yes we all have our faults.
So now, kind friends, you've been grievously wronged

By this lady who possesses no care,
And the name I disclose while our agonies prolonged
Is the name of Evelyn Sherer.

Kenneth, a mild and manlike chap was he;
His costume was as brief, as brief could be.
He vowed that he would woo and win a maid

But she skipped and left him in the shade.
At first she liked him; this was how she ceased—

He simply wouldn't wear his trousers
creased.

BAUMOEL'S STORE NEWS

There are a number of reasons why we urge our patrons to read our advertisements.

The record faithfully all the timely events of our store: Speyial Sales, Arrivals of Important Shipments, Announcements, Special Trade Transactions.

To read them constantly is a habit which we believe will prove as pleasant as it is profitable to you.

Whenever a Special Trade Transaction occurs we feel it our duty to give our customers the benefit.

M. BAUMOEL

A Freshman was held on an African coast
Where the cannibals held sway,
And the Freshie was served on slices of toast

On the eve on that very same day.
But the vengeance of Heaven soon followed the act

It's very plain to be seen
For the tribe with cholera morbus died—
That Freshman was so green.

"HOME, SWEET HOME"

Two little flees sat on a rock,
And one to the other said:
"I have no place to hang my hat
Since my old dog is dead.
I've traveled the wide world over
And farther will I roam;
But the first darned dog that shows his face
Will be my Home, Sweet Home."

HEADS

Heads come on bodies, barrels and beds, cheeks, chins, noses, eyebrows and bald spots come on heads.

Heads are used to hold hats, temper,
conceit, and now and then brains.

Necks, caressing arms, candid remarks, pillows and dampened towels are used to hold heads.

Some heads hold more than others.

The more a head may hold the more it may give out. The less it holds the sooner it may give out.

The Confidence Of the Public.

There is a basic principle on which every business enterprise hinges which may concretely be defined as the confidence of the public in that enterprise. No business can survive or grow without it any more than the body can live without nourishment.

From the beginning we have endeavored to gain this public confidence by always giving the public highest values for their money.

Uniformly good values through twenty years of service to the public have inspired complete public confidence in us, and because of this confidence we have grown from one small store to 371 Department Stores all over the country where highest values always prevail.
